I was going to see my family 5 hours from my home. About 30 minutes into the drive, my back started to spasm, normally the start of something much worse unless I handle it quickly. Instead of a 5+ hour wait to even try to get to a doctor, I called the Telehealth service.. They called me back and called in a prescription to a pharmacy right by my destination. I was able to pick it up before seeing my family and had a great visit. What an amazing service to have! — Mike

Q: What can't Telehealth doctors treat?

Answer: Telehealth doctors do not prescribe DEA controlled substances, non-therapeutic drugs or certain other drugs which may be harmful because of their potential for abuse. In the event a doctor does prescribe medication, he/she will limit the supply based on state regulations. If you have a chronic illness, you should visit a primary care physician or other specialist for extended care. Also, based on treatment protocols, doctors may not prescribe an antibiotic for viral illnesses such as most colds, sore throats, coughs, sinus infections and the flu. Doctors may suggest alternative treatment options such as a prescription for symptom relief or over-the-counter medication.

Q: Who are the Telehealth doctors?

Answer: They are U.S. licensed doctors residing in your state who meet many additional quality assurance standards. The doctors incorporate Telehealth into their day-to-day practice as a way to provide people convenient, affordable access to quality medical care.
